*Representatives from Kaplan spoke about the GRE.

Format of GRE
- 3 sections (quantitative, verbal, and writing)
- 3 hours
- Computer adaptive
- Can’t skip questions and are penalized for not answering

*GRE scores are very important to admission committees.

GRE Tips for Quantitative Section
- compare numbers rather than calculate
- make quantities look alike
- approximately 2 minutes per question

Kaplan Courses
- many courses offered, but the most common one is the classroom course that consists of 9 sessions, small classes, and 6 computer-adaptive courses
- you receive “smart reports” that determine your individual weaknesses and create homework specifically for the areas you need to work on
- if you register for a class by the end of the March, you can receive $250 off the cost of a class

*Celeste discussed the new MyRed program that UNL is using in the upcoming semester.

It’s very important to note that although a wait list appears on MyRed, UNL doesn’t actually have wait lists, so she warned us not to put our names on the wait list because it won’t save us a spot in a class.
- with this program, you can now swap courses without dropping the original class first and this way, you don’t risk losing your spot in the class if the second one doesn’t work out
- the My Planner function allows students to plan all the courses they need and want to take during their years as a student

Pick up informational sheets about how to use MyRed in Celeste’s office or the Arts & Sciences main office.
